"Invest in our Planet"

Organized by

DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE

In collaboration with

IQAC and Debates and Seminar Committee

About this Day:

The first Earth Day was organized by US Senator Gaylord Nelson, who was inspired by the anti-war protests of the 1960s to create a similar movement focused on environmental issues. He chose April 22 as the date for the event because it fell between spring break and final exams, making it easier for college students to participate.

Significance of Earth Day:

Earth Day is an important reminder that we all have a role to play in protecting the planet. It encourages us to think about the impact that our daily choices and actions have on the environment, and to take steps to reduce our carbon footprint, conserve resources, and protect wildlife and natural habitats. Earth Day also serves as an opportunity to advocate for policy changes that can have a positive impact on the environment, such as stronger regulations to reduce pollution, increased support for renewable energy, and more sustainable land-use practices.
